IC Innovator's Club

IC Innovator's Club is the brainchild of Surgeon Rear Admiral V K Singh (Retd.) and also author of book "Innovations in Healthcare Management: Cost-Effective and Sustainable Solutions". He along with some like-minded partners created a company InnovatioCuris (IC) to address the high cost of healthcare by innovation, use of technology and similar tools. During the last year, IC created a knowledge platform with webinars, conference and magazine to connect and disseminate information to innovators around the world. IC's large network of senior thought leaders, start-up companies, investors, incubator organizations, government officials, member of Parliament, ambassadors, academicians and many foreign dignitaries felt the need of a common platform to not only discuss innovation but to facilitate it. Thus the idea of an Innovator's Club was rooted and took shape.

About the Club

The IC Innovator's Club is a global network of healthcare innovators and aims to have members hailing not only from India but also across the globe. The ICI Club aims to connect some of the top leaders in healthcare for knowledge and skill sharing and create a nurturing environment where members can further enhance their skills. The Club provides educational opportunities to its members to learn new ways of thinking, discuss challenges faced in business, exchange ideas and engage with local, national and international dignitaries who are in the forefront of business development and thought leadership.
